Let's do it at 9:30 EST, just call the 1-800 number below and ask for me.

All the best,

Brian

Marianne, I'm around the rest of the week. Do you availability for a call on Wednesday?

Thanks, Brian. I'm sorry to hear y'all got it too. Our schools are still closed today as result of the road conditions and abandoned cars still out there.

We can also have the call early next week, as you mentioned (though the earlier, the better). I look forward to hearing back on your and Don's availability.

Regards,
Marianne

Marianne,

I'm around today, but you are right, Bham got it bad... Not as bad as ATL, but bad. I think Don, who was out of town, got in late last night after two long days of travel, so I'm not sure what his schedule is like today. If we don't talk today, let's try to talk early next week. When we know our schedule today, we'll let you know.

All the best,

Brian

Don and Brian,

I'm resending this email with the hopes that we can schedule a conference call. If Birmingham is in similar condition to Atlanta, I understand that it may not yet be business as usual as a result of the weather delays. Would you all be available for a conference call on Friday to discuss this issue and a few others regarding your clients' properties and the prep work needed to initiate a removal action? I'm generally available on Friday and can work around your schedules.

Thank you,
Marianne

Don, for your convenience, attached is a full list of your clients that are a part of the Phase I Removal Properties (and hence, will be a property visited by the OSCs in the next two weeks).

Thank you,
Marianne

Don,

The On-Scene Coordinators are beginning their initial visits to the properties comprising the Phase I Removal properties. You should have received the letters informing your clients of this if they were in fact part of the first phase of the removal action. For the immediate need, the OSCs would like to visit the clients in the second spreadsheet this week. We will provide you with a list of the upcoming visits as soon as I am able.

The purpose of the visit is to conduct a visual survey of the residential properties and determine the occupants in the home. This will involve discussions with the residents, as a result. However, no work is being conducted. We need to know whether counsel would like to be present for these OSC visits or whether you find it acceptable for the OSCs to proceed without you being present? If it is the latter, we will need to set up a scheduling system. Because of travel costs, we cannot delay these visits by much and will need someone to be readily available. If you have questions, please feel free to give me a call.

Regards,
Marianne
